Of course hotel staff must be encouraged to use public transport and cycling rather than motor cars to reach their workplace. However, it is important that there is provision for near by car park spaces for hotel guests.A common denominator in reasons given for the failure of this hotel in the past has been the lack of dedicated car parking.It is true that many hotels in big cities like Leeds,Liverpool and Manchester do not have car parking but Huddersfield cannot at this time be compared to these cities as a go-to destination and so our new hotel must not offer any excuse, such as lack of parking, for potential guests not to book the George Hotel. There are 2 car parks immediately outside the hotel and these should be offered to hotel guests. Consideration should also be given to whether the pick up area for the rail station,which is immediately outside the hotel, should be reinstated once work on the station is complete.A return to the nightly chaotic and often violent scenes of drivers vying for best places to pick up their loved ones will no doubt feature prominently in the dislike section for any hotel review.
