. 3 Dwellings overbearing on this conservation site and does not match the surrounding housing (ie a blot on the landcsape,spoiling historic views of the 12th century church) Put an extra strain on the already leaking sewage and drainage problems The design with balcony's would create privacy issues for exsisting residents and look totally out of character with the local neighbourhood. The building excavations and development could create foundation problems for the heavily used road directly above the top of the buildings and is the ginny to remain public access? . Access is limited and traffic dangerous in view of the narrow highly congested road conditions and potential additionall parking issues for 3 houses. The area is already overparked with visitors to immediate commercial properties The road access to the 3 properties is basically only capable of taking traffic in one direction at any one time with the social hub and shops in one direction and a long dangerous twisting lane in the other direction The site opens on to a corner area with limited pavement safety. Totally out of context in the conservation area and the site was originally left in trust to remain a green environmental oasis.
