re the wooden fence. When I built my drive, it had to be faced with dry stone as it was in the curtilage of a listed building. I consider therefore the wooden fence in it's current position, except for my area of land, should be replaced with a dry stone wall.

Wooden gutters are a feature of these listed buildings, and to request an alternative when other people in the area have continued with heritage guttering is not consistent. Their previous owners spent a large sum of money crafting these gutters.
