I have known of this childminding business for a few years as I know people that have taken their children there and they couldn't recommend it enough. This childminding venue is a massive asset to meltham, and meltham would be lost without it and the lovely staff that are there. Without this childminding business it would mean that there wouldn't be anywhere local for parents to take their children and they would have to find an alternative place to take their children. I know the childminding business is very close to most parents and they would then have to travel which means cost, and it's unsettling for the little ones when they could just be a 5 minute walk away, again it means unnecessary journeys. A lot of children that attend the childminders have a good bond with the other children, which makes friendships from an early age and makes it more comforting whilst being at the childminders too. The childminding business has close links with the local schools which makes it easier for the children once they transition to the school. It would be a massive shame to have to say goodbye to this place, I know a lot of happiness is made at this childminders.
