This childminding service is essential to our community. Its closure would cause real hardship for Meltham families, who already struggle to find nursery places and childminders. Parents would face longer journeys, higher fuel costs, and the loss of vital informal support, like help with school runs.

Living locally, our family relies on the convenience of being able to walk our granddaughter to and from the childminder. This helps us get to work on time and reduces traffic in the area.

Our granddaughter has been going there since she was four months old and is thriving. She loves going, has made good friends, and has a wonderful relationship with the staff.

Closing this childminding service because of the planning application being refused would be a huge loss for our village and the families who use it. It would also mean job losses at a difficult economic time. We're also worried about the impact on our granddaughter, who is happy and settled there.
