Dear Kirklees.

Regarding the above planning for Bellway to build 75 dwellings, it does not matter what or how they change entries and exits, speed bumps or single yellow lines or double yellow lines, it does not change the dynamics that this area is already bursting at the seams with traffic and congestion. So to build an additional 75 houses for families each having 2 + cars adding to the congestion is absolutely insane.
There is so little green space and nature around us to enjoy that this beautiful green area would be an absolute travesty for all humans and wildlife for it to be turned into another concrete jungle. Instead of thinking about how much money could be made, think about everyone's emotional wellbeing. The emotional cost of this planning application would be exorbitant. It's not all about money.
There are far more suitable sites to build housing that would wreak less havoc than pinching this precious green postage stamp size of an oasis in this area of Mirfield.

Please have a conscience.

Kind regards.
