

The 10 minute plan

Get ready for the unexpected

If your business faces disruption, communication in the early stages is key. In this plan you have identified the top 10 individuals or organisations you would need to contact. The In Case of Emergency (ICE) card below identifies other organisations you may need to contact. It is also important that staff know who in the business is responsible for managing business continuity. This responsible person and their contact number can be written in the blank section of the ICE card.
