The main issue here is the impact upon the conservation area, through the possible loss of mature trees and the design of the proposed dwellings. I will defer to my colleagues who deal with trees as to whether there is a detrimental effect here and whether the trees should be retained. In terms of design this is at outline stage and such matters are reserved. However by doing so it is difficult to fully assess the harm. I would ask that scale and appearance is not taken as a reserved matter.
