Site Waste Management Plan (SWMP)

The requirement to provide a site waste management plan was identified as a mandatory requirement in 2006 and as a company McCarthy & Stone has entered into a National trading agreement with Reconomy Solutions to provide advice, site waste skips and a detail SWMP which encompasses all waste removed from site from the start of site activity (demolition or remediation work) until practical completion of the development and identifies who removed the waste and where it is taken after leaving site.

In August 2010 McCarthy & Stone signed up to WRAP, a government initiative as part of its drive to improve waste management and its commitment to reduce the waste that leaves sites, the aim of this initiative is to halve waste to landfill.
