This building is of historical significance, being synonymous with the Luddite rebellion. The building itself is one of very few remaining of its type and significance. The erection of more houses will add to school challenges as they are all full, additional road traffic and affect the character of the area. If this planning is approved a characterful building will be lost forever. The area could do more about the Luddites to attract tourism and in so doing boost the local economy. However if we remove one of the last remaining traces of what happened there will be nothing left. The council cannot allow this to pass.
