This is typical short-sightedness by Kirklees planning and Council in general. This is an important part of our local heritage and history, I was taught about the Shears and it's place in history at school. I lived on the Lower Hall estate across Halifax Road from the pub. As a child I tried to imagine the pub how it used to be in those days. That in itself sparked an interest in local history. We should be celebrating local heritage and using it for tourism and teaching purposes. What's next, the Bronte house opposite Clough Lane? If you allow this to go ahead, you are wiping away a momentous past and creating an empty future for our children.
