I notice the historic building is being demolished to erect four dwellings. Well there is sufficient space to erect 3 dwellings and keep the original Shears House as the fourth dwelling. In that way the area keeps its important historic character depicting the important Luddite Way connections. This feature brings tourism to the area, As you travel up the Halifax Road you pass the Old Grammer School building on the left and then the Shears on the left and the Bronte connection house on the right. Please do not demolish history that we can never get back. I have reasons to be proud of Liversedge and it's past connection, and unnecessary demolishing for the sake of a few extra quid is not sufficient justification. The Shears is a key feature of the Luddite trail, keep its shell for exterior appearance to the main road. Please make responsible decisions, don't be carelessly reckless without realising the implications for the area. Thank you
