Latham Lane is a lane where the majority of it is green belt. It is classed as a nice country lane which people have decided to buy there house here due to this reason. It is a narrow single track road which cannot with stand heavy weights. It is not a lane for business's it is for people to live. This application has already been declined once as people feel strongly that if the buildings were to go up they would bring problems to Latham Lane. There is already a bright light that affects the cue for driving, containers which make it look like a building site, lots of vans arriving throughout the day so this is causing more vehicles coming on the lane. Noise levels have increased they have very early starts there fore you can hear vehicles in and out. There are chemicals also been stored on the land. More containers and garages would reduce the light, cause neighbours to be overlooked and the lane would not stand all the vehicles and heavy machinery going on it. I feel that they need to be relocated to somewhere secure for businesses and where machinery can be stored that is not on a country lane and should not be ruining the green belt.
