

Heritage Statement

14 Huddersfield Road is a Grade II listed building located within the Holmfirth Conservation area. The building is part of a terrace with under dwellings which are accessed by Scar Fold. The building dates back to early 19th Century and to Huddersfield Road there is a mid 19th Century frontage to the first floor and a 20th Century shopfront to the ground floor.

The building is constructed of hammer dressed stone with a stone slate roof with moulded stone brackets to gutters. There is a large central stone stack. To the Huddersfield Road side the first floor has 2 single sashes. The rear elevation is symmetrical and handed with the neighbouring buildings. Each dwelling consists of near central doorway with one 3-light window to one side and single light to other. To the first floor each has one 9-light window: that to left with each end light blocked and that to right with 3 centre lights blocked. To second floor each has one 3-light and one single light. One 9-light stone mullion window to each at third floor level. Third and first floors have continuous sill bands. There is a roof light within the rear roof slope.

The proposed works at 14 & 16 Huddersfield Road as follows;

Removal of part of the internal wall adjoining 14 and 16 Huddersfield Road to form a walkway between the two buildings. This is to join two shops together to expand the current square footage of business Dotty Taylor Bridal Limited.
