Such a large flat roofed canopy, with signage on the top, and the roller shutters when the building is closed would be too obtrusive for the conservation area. The alterations to the mosque across the road were done very tastefully and to improve access. If the canopy was more like the Victorian one in the illustration, with a glass roof and no shutters or extra signage it might be a different matter, or if it was much smaller. The size of the enclosed area, on a corner in a place where the road and the pavement are fairly narrow would I think cause danger to pedestrians and road users, because it would reduce visibility. There are some road humps but it is a really busy place for traffic, with people going in and out of the mosque, funerals taking place, lots of parked cars, and close to the busy junction with Kingcliffe road and Wasp nest Road.
