Leeds Road (A653) is already dangerous to navigate as a cyclist - the road is busy during rush hour and there are many cars parked in the cycle lanes. This is only going to get worse with increased industrial traffic - the most terrifying kind of traffic to be next to when on a bike. The road also suffers from people driving too fast and taking unnecessary risks - how much worse is this going to be when there's slow industrial traffic trundling along? The increased pollution, both air and noise, from the industrial traffic, on top of the additional cars from multiple new housing estates also concerns me.
