If the church had looked after its assets a little better we would not be in this position. What happened to "All things bright and beautiful etc" or has that been lost in the rush for money before folk? This area has brought so much pleasure to people over a very long time and the last thing to be let go should be such a local treasure. This will make the area noisy, crowded and destroy valuable green belt. I guess neighbouring property owners will not be happy when their views vanish.-
