Leeds road is already terrible for volume and boy racers. The condition itself is appalling when near the junction to the old Babes in the wood, so add another 1,300 houses and it's going to need major updating and speed control. The woods and walks around there go back hundreds of years, and the area itself around woodkirk is mentionned in the doomsday book. It's a delightful place to walk and an out of harms way for kids to grow up and explore on foot or by mountain bike.
