The loss of green belt land and woodland would have a negative impact upon the mental health of local residents with the loss of open spaces, wildlife and public footpaths. Further more impacting upon the physical health of local people with less areas for walking and exercising. Loss of greenbelt land will have a negative impact upon future generations. Loss of habitats for wildlife impacting upon their survival, as well as impacting the educarion of future generations. With the current global climate crisis that we face, we should not be taking away greenbelt land and natural spaces which is only adding to the ongoing crisis. Increase in traffic will impact the local community on already over populated roads. This impacting on highway safety for all road users including cyclists and horse riders who already encounter high volumes of traffic on the roads, making the roads too dangerous. In turn adding more pressure onto emergency services and their resources which are already stretched. Objections from the local community must be listened to, ensuring the best interest of the community and local residents, ensuring no negative impacts upon current and future generations.
