I think that the development will bring some much needed infrastructure to the area which has been highly developed with housing in recent years and which continues to have housing developments. Currently there are no larger supermarkets in the area and choice is very limited. The plans look to have taken into account local residents and keeping mature trees etc. Although housing is of great need, without developing other services such as food retail, schools and health services, there will not be much point in having houses in the area as local amenities cannot keep up to the demand. I think it will also help to move and reduce congestion away from the Sainsbury's junction.
