These houses would be accessed from a 50mph stretch of dual carriageway. By creating a new left hand turn half way down this currently uninterrupted stretch of dual carriage the likelihood of serious accidents when cars break to turn to access the proposed development would massively increase. Given there is no junction , lights or roundabout you would literally have cars approaching stationary vehicles at speeds where they would be unable to stop; rear end shunts or worse would result. This is simply an unsafe proposal on road safety grounds. It is improbable that the occupants of these dwellings would be able to get safely on to the dual carriageway with enough visibility/ time to get up to speed. This would interrupt the flow of traffic on the A647 as well as increasing the accident risk.
