I presently live in Birstall Old Hall which was subject to a similar application in 1965. The house was awarded a grade 2* listing and saved for future generation as an absolute historical architectural gem of Birstall. For what it is worth it is my opinion that Clough house falls into exactly the same category as Birstall Old Hall and absolutely no demolition work should be allowed without the involvement of Historical Britain and any other relevant Historical agency's . The planning authorities should never allow a house of such historical importance and a architectural beauty to be demolished for short term financial gain.
