This building is an important part of Birstalls history and landscape. Many of the historic buildings in Birstall have been changed or demolished and this needs to stop. Howden clough is already not looking as nice as it previously has with the erection of council esate houses which are often unkempt. The population of the area is already at a peak with the traffic at an all time high and the requirement for additional housing should not override the nessesity for preserving local land marks and houses of grandure.
