I think this land needs to remain agricultural. There are protected habitats, it provides drainage & separates the villages. I fear if this goes ahead, along with the large developments in Honley, that Brockholes & Honley bridge will be more susceptible to flooding. The junction at the top of Smithy Place is so dangerous, more traffic will increase risk & pollution. Regarding school places, we have lots of development going on around the Holme Valley, especially in Honley and around New Mill, so school places are likely to fill very quickly over the coming years. The GP surgeries and other amenities will be similar. I also feel that these properties don't provide good value in the Holme Valley. They aren't future proofed with sustainability in mind, active travel isn't a consideration, there are no smaller properties or those intended for social housing. We have plenty of large "luxury" homes available that will all need updating with more climate friendly features. We don't need more of the same.
