The builders of these houses on the previous site behind Clay Well have demonstrated a clear disregard for planning permissions, they've already cleared the ground despite not being allowed due to protected newts, they knocked down a wash house from the 1800s despite the fact they had no permission, they're building houses on a higher elevation than they have permission for as they haven't flattened the land properly, destroyed land that didn't belong to them, and have erected fences above what was agreed. And they've been allowed to get away with all of it. No repercussions from the council at all. It's appalling, and continuing to let them expand and build without enforcing corrections of anything they've currently done illegally is abysmal. If they let this go ahead not only are they showing such blatant disregard to current residents, but you'd have to question why they're allowing it and what other illegal actions have got them this far.
