I raised this objection the first time planning permission was posted publicly for the properties in question, this is regarding my right to light. This affects a side window on my property which we have owned outright and lived in since October 1989. We are not nor have we ever been tenants in this property as I think the developers believed we were. A surveyor was sent around at the time who took some measurements from our side window and door, however we believed planning permission must have been granted since the building of the properties went ahead blocking the light we had previously enjoyed. The previous workshop building that existed was set to the rear of the land and did not overlook the side window and door.
