I fully support the above application for a Lidl store on the old Spotted Cow site at Salendine Nook.
I think Sainsbury's have become very greedy with their prices, especially during these trying times. I feel for young families and the elderly who don't always have transport so are forced to shop there. The car park is an absolute nightmare.
I do believe a Lidl would be fair competition and may just force Sainsbury's to lower their prices as a little competition never hurt anyone. This would also ease the terrible traffic congestion at all the junctions around their car park.
I really do hope this store will go ahead this time and kirklees would stop dragging their heels.
