The Traffic going through this junction at peak times backs up making other junctions congested. On a regular basis the traffic at this junction can be backed all the way up to screw fix with traffic cutting through the field head estate and coming back through Birstall. Also, the traffic issues at this junction back down Huddersfield's Road down the Bradford Road in all directions. The traffic situation around Birstall has gotten worse with making brookroyd lane a one-way road. Birstall already has a Tesco express and a co-op and a small independence store in the market square. There are three little corner shops in Howden clough a conner shop in field head estate. Down in Batley there is a big Tesco and other supermarkets. We really do not need anymore food/takeaway shops in the area If a Sainsburys local was built this would have a massive effect on the local area. we would have to deal with more congestion as people coming home from work would want to get into the carpark for the new Sainsburys making more traffic there would also be issues for getting out of the car park as traffic is already backing up. Also, this could be a safety problem for residents as this will have a nock on effect to emergency services. God forbid if there was a fire hear in peak times. We would also see a trading impact in the market square in Birstall with the other food trading shops. Birstall is a small village with some small independent shops. Anymore big supermarkets would take trade away from the shops in the village. The old remaining house's left on the sight should never have been let to decorate. This area is in a conversation area so current owners should have been made to maintain these. This planning should not go ahead. Because of the points I have made above
