| I think it's disgusting that the nelson inn public house has been demolished already it's only been empty just over a year it should of been kept as a inn and just changed use there was no need to demolish a good part of the history of thornhill lees it says people can object until July 2022 application was received 21 June it's been demolished well before then there nothing left of it to be fair it also mentions a date for august we're almost at end of June and it's been demolished so they haven't even had a planning yet but of course it's going to be rebuilt to education n pray room so they can pull down buildings and do as they like it's not on there's enough schools n education Centers n places to pray without this pub been pulled down it should of been a listed building they should be refused planning and if it's any thing like brewery lane on a Friday traffic will be awful with amount of cars that will line roads | |
