There is a severe lack of parking in Lindley for the number of residents in the area and this land would be better served as a car park to support local businesses. There are a number of eateries on the high street now and people need longer than an hour to park (which is how long they have now the restrictions are in place on Lidget Street). Traffic is already chaotic along Thorncliffe street with people avoiding the queues at the end of Lidget Street, without introducing a building that will increase traffic from employees and visitors.
