I wish to object to the change of use as I assume it is to make the business bigger and therefore taking in more dogs. Of which there would be a huge issue of nuisance noise. The hours of opening would also become a problem if they opened earlier/later.
I also don't believe something of that nature would be in keeping with the local area. Something like nature is more suited to an industrial setting. On a more personal level I do feel strongly that it will have a huge impact on similar business in the area of which there are many and at a time where there is a huge financial crisis would put strain on businesses and could end up closing down.
