Normally I would object to building on green belt land but this is a brownfield site. Unlike many new developments this is eco-friendly and offers affordable social housing. This sort of development should be encouraged rather than the climate unfriendly, very expensive and large house developments we have seen so much of in recent years. Young people need somewhere to live in the Holme Valley and I would welcome more diversity as the Holmfirth area is increasingly dominated by wealthy, white, older households.
