I think this development is much needed in the area given the lack of affordable homes for young people. I also welcome the fact these are being built with climate change and energy costs in mind - again facts that make them more affordable than many houses in the area. Local residents have raised objections about the development, as it is green belt land but the site is not that special and it does not really expand the perimeter of the village by encroaching on green areas ... which was what the green belt was originally set up for.
