Having lived on this estate for 10 years it has become more apparent as the years go on there is real sense of community and people really care about one another and their going on's. Everyone is very supportive of how people develop their properties and really feel it adds good value and for one I am all for it. However on this occasion as much as I support the application to make changes to the property I don't feel the plans have taken into consideration the ethos of the estate and the look of the estate which dates back to bronte times. The design for this house would stand out in a way that wouldn't suit the area. I would like to suggest some of the exterior be reconsidered and the vendor try and keep in with the lovely affluent area in which we live instead of creating something that just suits themselves.
