This is more of a comment because I don't think that there is much more I can object to from your list is issues, Preamble:- since the last application my neighbour has removed a number of the tall trees which has reduced the overlooking. Main :-I am still unable to get the measurements from the diagrams (tech issues) and am unsure where the actual boundary lies. There are concrete posts which marks the boundary b With this in mind my issues are:- the gap between the new garage wall has been filled in as a covered walk way. But there are no indications of guttering that I can see and am concerned that there is no overhang of the eaves and guttering . Even when all these things are taken into account there is still an awful lot of brickwork and roofing confronting us, and whereas the existing garage roof goes from front to back the new one is higher and sits side to side so whilst (hopefully) unlikely any falls from the roof Many thanks
