Concern for the amount of particulate matter (PM10) that will be released into the immediate area exceeds the max concentration recommended by the WHO. I am raising a young family over the road from the Bromley farm site, I intend to live here for a long time and do not want the health of my family compromised. The WHO recommended a maximum level of 5 µg/m for fine particulate matter for long term exposure in order to protect health, the figures in the report exceed this recommendation.
