I support this planning proposal and having read through many of the previous comments, one of which includes an outdated image of google maps 2020. This image clearly shows how much of this green space the residents have occupied themselves and yet they were complaining about losing the green space because of the development. Let's be honest there is no personal gain for anyone objecting to this proposal here and realistically it's just the fact that they can't accept another member of the community doing better for themselves and progressing further by improving the area. This is by far a huge element of jealousy which is blatantly obvious. There is a severe housing shortage both locally and nationally and it seems like the objectors are denying desperate families the chance of homes. Objecting to this is just morally wrong and shows total disregard for the needs of desperate families. Never has there been so many objections to such a small development. It appears that in their minds these residents are becoming architects and surveyors and forming their own conclusions and giving invalid and irrelevant reasons to object.
