I can see a couple of individuals really losing their minds over this planning application and they keep knocking on everyone's doors repeatedly persuading them it's like a theme of comedy going on at Kingsley Avenue.

I understand there are petitions being held all over for serious matters in the world, but against a small housing project application is somewhat ridiculous. Some of the comments by the objectors mentioning over development, strain on local schools, risk of overburdened facilities it's clear these objections have been copied and pasted from a separate major housing application on Blackmoorfoot Road, so the concerns being raised are not even their own but rather the opinions and words of others related to an entirely different application. Another objection about a resident moving specifically to this area for privacy, I mean last time we checked Kingsley Avenue is a public road, for privacy it probably makes sense to move in to a private area. I really do wish the people on the street would see how pathetic this is coming across as and even in a month like this, they let the jealousy get the best of them. To the people who welcome the wildlife with 'open arms' did you not consider this when many houses on Kingsley avenue extended their rear gardens on to the green space where this 'cool' wildlife may have been habiting, also extensions and renovations took place over the years, but there were no objections or issues raised about noise, dirt or disruption. Lastly for the residents who are suffering in silence over a minor planning application, please use a talking therapy service which helps with mental health.

Thank you.
