Having looked at the revised plans for the development, all my previous objections remain the same. The addition of the chimney does not in any way address the odours that will emanate from the proposed business. The bin store as shown on the revised plans, is approximately half the size of the area the bins currently occupy at the existing business and there are also two drain pipes situated in this area (cast iron) that will prevent any bins fitting flush to the wall. None of these alterations have addressed any issues raised in the objections.
