Hi

I hope you are well.

I have had to have a tree removed that has a TPO. I returned from my holiday yesterday to find it was uprooting and leaning considerably towards the homes of myself and my neighbours.

A tree surgeon attended late afternoon and advised the tree needed to come down asap as it was clear it was dangerous. The tree was a lime tree and approximately 25m high, being 17m away from the houses it was leaning towards.

The tree surgeons have now removed the tree. If you could advise what I now need to do.

If you would give me a call to discuss this that would be appreciated. I took photos and a video for evidence. Attached are a couple of those photos.

I and my neighbour have 5 other trees between us all with TPO's. We would like to have work done on these as recommended by the tree surgeon. If you could also advise how I go about arranging permission for this work that would also be great.

Thanks in advance

Best Regards
