The plan only allows for 2 recreational spaces and fails to create improved access to the public right of way accessible from the bottom of Henry Frederick Avenue, which is inaccessible for anyone using mobility aids, and poses a risk of accidental tripping and crime attacks due to the dark conditions. Moreover, it neglects to state how it will improve access from Roslyn Avenue, along which the pavements are covered in moss and very slippery. Perhaps the council should prioritise making safe the existing infrastructure of Netherton, rather than granting permission for development that ignores these clear and long-standing dangers.
