The updated plans appear that the building has been moved to the other end of the plot. The building appears to have already been erected. The noise from the workmen shouting and swearing and and the reversing forklift trucks started before 6am Industrial usage will involve noise, very close to all houses in the street. The complex is in a large courtyard, and this amplifies noise, moving the building several feet with not reduce the ongoing noise after the construction. If windows on the street side, privacy will be infringed. I have had to endure a lot of noise already over the last few years that has caused issues while demolishing and building went on. This will be a building used for industrial purposes and longer term noise implications will be perminant... I have spoken to some of my neighbours and i believe they will also be commenting on this amended application.
