Why put it there? Mmmmm CU Phosco building it and also obtaining rent for it being on their land, must be rubbing their hands together, very dodgy, but why there, so close to residential properties ? Money talks again

. The houses opposite only have front gardens so when sat out are going to have this massive eyesore in front of them and in the winter when the leaves come off the trees it will have an even worse visual impact on the surrounding area. What about the health issues surrounding these masts, RF radiation is a new kind of environmental pollution and there still remains considerable debate about this, clean air zone DONT THINK SO, with the already very busy and going to get busier main A road, Westgate, in and out of Cleckheaton, you're welcome to come and test this ! On to my last point, the saleability of houses near to this structure, devaluation due to aesthetics, health implications and reportedly up to 15-25% off their values. So where do we go for compensation, take our legal proceedings to, for drop in house prices, the council, Cu Phosco or the mobile phone companies, who's responsible ????

Finally my mobile phone signal and broadband are very good anyway and so are my neighbours, so put it where its not good or ? Why not on top of the Lions confectionary company further up Westgate for example, where the visual and environmental impact will be less.
