We overlook the property and share a boundary fence. We have no serious objections to the development. One member of the household has medical issues which severely impacts on sleep and energy levels and it is important for us to have respite from the noise associated with building a new home and extending an additional one which, if self build ,is likely to go on for many months. Therefore we would ask that there be no weekend working on the build and that works do not start before 8am on a morning and not after 6pm at night to allow us to have a quality of life. This should apply whether a contractor/builder is employed to do the work or if the home owner does the work himself. Internal works where there is no perceived external noise or disturbance is obviously not an issue. The plans should also ensure that the upper windows do not directly look into our home and that there is no issue with deterioration of light.
