Hello, After looking over these plans the first thing I notice is the land of this dwelling will all be taken up by the extension with no room for off road parking and as the plot is on a corner position of a blind bend on road parking would not only be illegal but downright dangerous. Also the extensions would make the building twice its current size which would be totally out of character with all the adjacent properties. As the application states ,four bed with three en suite could be a multiple occupancy dwelling how many vehicles are going to be parked in other areas of the street which on some weekends is already on weekends full of pavement parked football players and supporters cars? The developer and owner MR Raja in the past has extended 24 dryclough avenue and has in the past and although a in future. Due to his venture in 24 dryclough avenue the residents have had almost 5 years disruption and noise with many complaints being made and an ongoing complaint by the occupant of over breach of plans. All the residents I have spoken to do not want another five years of mess and disruption. A building of this size in a street of small bungalows mainly occupied by elderly is totally unacceptable. Thank You for reading ,kindest regards
