Surprised to read of the limitations to the Oi Dumplings opening and licencing hours when Peel Street, Marsden has other established food and drink businesses opening late. Seems somewhat of a hypocritical response which might clip the wings of a dynamic and go-ahead young business that will most likely enhance the visitor experience to Marsden's high street. The clientele of Oi seem to be of a high calibre and given this is a civilised sit down experience, it's hardly likely that their customers will cause issues to either other users of the high street or residents. Given the known anti social issues caused by the so called 'Ale Trailers', effort would be far better put into encouraging businesses such as Oi who will pull in a better behaved class of person to dilute some of the anti-social element currently visiting the village.
