Marsden is a stunning village, not all about the Ale Trailers, but it is now becoming famous for the diversity of food and drinks and small village sociability (unfortunate for the dying town centre of mainstream Huddersfield at present). Small business need to be supported and encouraged, and by suppressing the trading hours small businesses become unviable....the rates, insurance and staffing bills must make anyones eyes water...to allow lunch is OK but dinners need to eat at dining times, after work, to relax? There might be objections from vociferous parties of Marsden, but truly these are the minority and need to get with the times. Give these young entrepreneurs a break and make Marsden a power house place.
