I don't actually live at this address. I live in saddleworth just over the hill. Myself and my girlfriend drive over often for walks with the dogs and bao buns at riverhead brewery which is excellent...we wouldnt keep coming back otherwise. We were at riverhead when oi dumplings had their soft opening and the atmosphere on the street was fantastic and no trouble at all. I have run restaurants for over 20 years in saddleworth and after spending the evening in Marsden that night and then going back over to uppermill, where it was dead I may add, I think you should realise what a fantastic community you have. We have sampled the dumplings at the Xmas markets in Manchester and the fact everywhere else in Marsden has a later licence just makes the mind boggle that you haven't granted these girls a later licence. We will be over next week to sample them again through the day but use common sense and let these girls be part of the fantastic local scene that is occuring in your local area. They are clearly passionate about what they do and it shows when you shove their dumplings in your gob. Up the dumplings
