To Who It May Concern.

In addition to my earlier objection, I would further like to add that because of the lack of consultation and the concern created by this, more publicity in relation to this situation has occurred. This in itself, means that residents will know the likely background of all residents and the probability that all residents have behavioural problems. This is already a breach of GDPR before the home opens.

The company applying for this planning permission, Northern Community Pathways Children's Residential Services (NCPCRS) are not a responsible company to offer children's services in the community. They are already have a vacancy for staff to manage new homes in the area, which possibly includes this one. This questions whether they have been advised that the decision will go in their favour. They are advertising for staff and appear that they will give the positions to anybody that basically wants a job by saying apply, even if you have "zero experience". This is a job that requires commitment, dedication and training and not for the faint hearted. If they are going to staff it with anyone who applies rather than the right people setting it up for failure.
