As a resident in the area, and also a regular customer of using the InPost drop.off site, i can say that there has not been an increase in traffic in the area, no more than the usual for people visiting the store. There is ample places to park on Leeds road without drive ways being blocked. The location of driveways that have been "suggested" that are being blocked are located further down from the fish shop on the same road. There are no obligations to that traffic brought in from residents. I do not see an issue with the drop off point being located there as people can choose when to visit so can do this round quieter times. I have been myself today and there were 2 cars parked up including myself. So this is not an issue that is a reason to reject. The location is already there and it is not as though it is something new. I fully support the planning permission going ahead.
